Sinlaku Slow-Moving; Extended Period of Heavy Winds Expected; Remain Indoors

Guam remains in Condition of Readiness (COR) 1. Joint Region Marianas remains in TCCOR 1E, indicating destructive winds of 50 knots (57 mph) or greater are occurring. Installation access points are closed, with the exception of U.S. Naval Hospital Guam for emergency department access only. REMAIN INDOORS UNTIL COR 4 IS ANNOUNCED.

Sinlaku is slow moving. This is an extended period event. Guam can expect:

- Topical storm force conditions to persist across Guam as rain bands continue to train over the island bringing heavy showers and wind gusts up to 75 mph through at least late morning but damaging winds of 39 mph or more will continue well into the evening, after sunset. Such winds will continue to pose risk to public safety, infrastructure and power lines.
- Remain indoors until the Governor declares COR 4.
- Peak conditions with sustained winds of 40 to 60 mph and gusts of 70 to 85 mph decreasing through the morning, eventually falling to between 25 and 40 mph this afternoon.
- Stay out of the water; conditions are life threatening. Dangerous sea conditions are expected to last until the end of the week.

Guam remains under both a tropical storm warning and a typhoon watch. As of 5 a.m., Typhoon Sinlaku was located 15.2N and 145.4E, 125 miles north-northeast of Guam. It is moving northwest at 5 mph with maximum sustained winds of 145 mph. Typhoon Sinlaku is pulling away to the northwest from Tinian and Saipan and will begin to pass through the northern CNMI just west of the islands of Alamagan, Pagan, and Agrihan, through the latter half of the week.
