DPHSS Directive Authorizes All Construction to Resume

After reviewing operational plans and inspecting construction facilities to ensure that COVID mitigation measures were in place and the health of the workers were prioritized, the Department of Public Health and Social Services (DPHSS) has issued a directive to authorize all construction companies to resume operations with the exception of those who were notified of a pending inspection, or need to submit additional documentation, before they may operate. This authorization is effective today, September 15.
